2. 대화를 듣고, 남자의 의견으로 가장 적절한 것을 고르시오.

M: Jennifer, what are you doing?

W: I'm checking an email. It says that I should change my password on my social media account.

M: When was the last time you changed your password?

W: Actually I've never changed it since I created my account.

M: You mean you've been using the same password all this time?

W: Yes. I haven't changed any of my passwords on my online accounts. I forget my passwords easily.

M: That's too risky! It's important to change your passwords regularly to prevent potential hacking attempts.

W: That makes sense. How often should I change my passwords?

M: Experts recommend changing passwords every three to six months.

W: I'll keep that in mind. Thanks.

3. 다음을 듣고, 여자가 하는 말의 요지로 가장 적절한 것을 고르시오.

W: Hello, listeners! I'm Jessica, your host from Happy Days. Today, we're going to explore the art of gracefully declining someone's request. The key to this is offering a reason when saying no. By doing so, we create understanding, prevent any potential misunderstandings, and strengthen our connections with others. Of course, there may be exceptions, but in general, giving an explanation can truly make a big difference. It shows that we care about the other person's feelings while still being honest about our own limitations. We'll be back with more tips after the break. Stay tuned.

W: Okay. Oh, I love this teddy bear on top of the truck. It's very cute.

M: Right. Do you see the sign on the truck?

W: Yes, it says Tom's Organic Food. Your brother is selling organic food. Nice!

M: Yeah. This man inside the truck is my brother.

W: He looks cool wearing his chef's hat!

M: Look at this standing signboard for the menu. Isn't it pretty?

W: Absolutely. I like that it's decorated with flowers.

M: And my brother set up this table with a parasol for the customers.

M: I think the $70 one will be better. Look, it has better reviews.

W: I agree. I'll go for it.

M: Don't we need packs of sugar powder for the cotton candy, too?

W: You're right. Let's buy some. [Clicking sound] How about these? They're $5 per pack.

W: Cool. What kind of things will they teach us?

M: Many things, including sending emails and surfing the web.

W: Perfect. And the classes will run for three months, starting on October 16th.

They are reported to stay with their mothers until they are teenagers. Elephants are also known to live with their mothers for up to 16 years, and sometimes even a lifetime. Giraffes typically enjoy the company of their mothers for up to two years. Occasionally female giraffes travel with their mothers until the parent dies. Lastly, polar bears remain with their mothers until they are two and a half years old. During this period, they learn important survival skills necessary for living in the Arctic environment. Now, let's watch a video clip about these animals.
